ABOUT THIS PROPERTY

Inside an Architectural Sanctuary Ponce-Davis | Miami Hidden within the lush canopy of Ponce-Davis stands a residential home, this 5,000+ square foot steel-framed sanctuary was conceived as an environment, not merely a structure. Intention. Exposed structural steel beams form its skeleton, while California redwood wraps the interior and exterior in cavernous redwood clad great room with sunken lounge anchors the home. A sculptural staircase hugs coral stone. Upstairs bedrooms open to a terrace immersed in tropical canopy. Outside, a 50 foot lap lane flows into a free-form pool of extraordinary value. This is not speculative luxury. It is authored architecture. A steel & redwood sanctuary that could be the one person capable of truly becoming one with it.
